The People's United Community Foundation has awarded $294,500 in grants to Connecticut nonprofit organizations this quarter, according to the group.

The foundation awarded grants to 39 groups in Connecticut. It was part of a broader $600,250 in grants it gave to 86 organizations throughout its service area, which also includes Massachusetts, Maine, Vermont, New York and New Hampshire.

The largest single grant was $50,000 to the American Red Cross, which serves all states in People's service area.

Among Greater New Haven recipients, Neighborhood Housing Services of New Haven got $15,000 for foreclosure prevention services, New Haven Home Recovery got $7,500 for family programs, the New Haven Diaper Bank got $4,000 and Marrakech Inc. received $3,500 for training scholarships.

Also, the Connecticut Food Bank received a $20,000 grant to buy food for its efforts to fight hunger in the state.

"We continue to be impressed with the caliber of nonprofit leaders and their staffs who are dedicated to making an impact on the lives of residents throughout our communities," Vincent Santilli, executive director of the foundation, said in a statement.

The foundation, the charitable arm of Bridgeport-based People's United Bank, was established in 2007 to help fund programs that assist residents of the communities the bank serves. The foundation emphasizes programs that promote economic self-sufficiency, education and improved conditions for low-income families and areas. It lists its funding priorities as community development, youth development and affordable housing.
